

Living abroad. Why could be a good option?

Good morning everyone,

I'm María and along the following minutes I'm going to tell you about why could be a good choice living abroad.

Nowadays many people (generally young people) all over the world are thinking about living and working in a foreign country.

What do you think about it? Why to live abroad? Why did you choose, girls, that option?

In my opinion, that's a good way to learn many new things about life in other cultures. In addition, you can learn how to speak another language, or even two, as in our case. It's also important to understand the behaviour of people from different countries, I mean, the way they look at you, the way they touch you, the way they answered your questions...

But why we should take that into account??

Because if you don't have this kind of empathy, sometimes you can think that the other person is rude or he is in a bad mood, but be careful!!! It's just because of his culture!!

Another interesting point is to know different places, not only the landmarks of the country but also the less famous villages or monuments. Those less famous villages I referred to, can show you the traditional style of living. The way through people used to earn money, how were the traditional buildings and roads...

A good idea could be try to talk to the inhabitants of those villages because they can tell you stories about the place and anecdotes.

So remember the next time you can have a coffee in a Café and ask some things to the waiter. He probably answered you all your doubts.

Besides, I think that if you live in a different place with other people you can learn or improve values about your day a day life at home. I'm thinking for instance... trust other people, to be responsible, to be patient... All things you improve when you share a flat.

To sum up, I'd recommend everybody to travel and live abroad at least once a life. I think it's an easy way to increase your general knowledge about the world; besides those experiences become you more open-minded in many senses. Do you agree, don't you??
